Lexington, MA (March 4, 2019) --- To commemorate the 244th Anniversary of the first day of the American Revolutionary War, the Lexington Minute Men, and local British Revolutionary War re-enactors, depict the skirmish that took place on Lexington Common, early on the morning of April 19, 1775. Witness the tensions mount, as the local militia company from Lexington confronts the King's Regulars, and the ensuing skirmish that follows; the "shot heard 'round the world." The re-enactment of the "Battle of Lexington" is on Patriots' Day – April 15, 2019 starting at 5:45 am on the Lexington Common.

"This is a great opportunity to witness our common heritage as Americans" says Larry Conley, Captain Commanding of the Lexington Minute Men. "Spectators begin to arrive at Lexington Common as early as 3:00 in the morning in order to get a prime spot for the events that begin with the alarm bell sounding in the Old Belfry at 5:30 am. According to Henry Liu, Past Captain Commanding, "There are usually 8–10,000 spectators lining the Common to watch the 77 Lexington Minute Men and their families portray the colonists, and more than 150 British portray His Majesty's Regulars (known to many as the "Red Coats") of 1775.

The Battle of Lexington is re-enacted each year on the Massachusetts holiday known as Patriots' Day. Commemorating April 19, 1775, the day in American history when the smoldering discontent in the colonies under Parliament's rule, flared into open hostilities. The Battle began with a quick skirmish at Lexington Common, and expanded into a day-long series of fights along a stretch of country road involving over 3,500 provincial militia men, and over 2,100 of His Majesty's Regulars. This was the beginning of the American Revolutionary War. The initial fighting in the war was a local action between Britain and her recalcitrant colony of Massachusetts. This skirmish led to fighting throughout the original 13 colonies and Canada, and international war, culminating in American Independence. "The 'Shot that was heard around the world' and American Independence started on Lexington Green" according to Liu.
