WHAT: The Lexington Minute Men and local British Revolutionary War re-enactors commemorate the 244th Anniversary of the first day of the American Revolutionary War by re-enacting the skirmish that took place on Lexington Common, early on the morning of April 19, 1775. The reenactment of the “Battle of Lexington” is on Patriots’ Day – April 20, 2020 and starts at 5:45 a.m. on the Lexington Common.

WHERE: The re-enactment of the ‘Battle of Lexington’ takes place at Lexington Common on Massachusetts Avenue in Lexington, MA.

WHEN: Patriots’ Day, Monday, April 20, 2020 at 5:45 a.m. Spectators begin to arrive at Lexington Green at 3:30 a.m. in the morning in order to get a prime spot for the event. The rain date is Saturday, April 25, 2020 at 5:45 a.m.

ADMISSION: FREE

HOW BIG: 77 Lexington Minute Men and their families portray the colonists, and more than 150 British living historians recreate the “red coats” of 1775. There are usually 8–10,000 spectators lining the Common at 5:45 a.m.

FOR WHOM: Everyone! This is a great opportunity to witness our common heritage as Americans. The program attracts many families and school children. There are four different schools from New Hampshire and Maine that annually charter school buses to bring students to the event.

WHAT YOU WILL SEE: A recreation of Captain John Parker and 77 other Lexington militia men who stood on the Lexington Common waiting for the arrival of the British troops. The Minute Men did not block the road, but merely stood at attention off to the side as the King's army arrived. Eyewitnesses reported that Captain Parker said, "Stand your ground! Don't fire unless fired upon! But if they mean to have a war, let it begin here!" British Major Pitcairn, at the front of his column, shouted to the Colonists: "Lay down your arms, you damned rebels and disperse!" The Colonists were clearly outnumbered. Parker ordered his men to back away. A shot rang out. Men on both sides fired their weapons. Eight Colonists fell dead.

Historians recognize Lexington Common as the location where the smoldering discontent in the colonies under Parliament's rule, flared into open hostilities. The historic day began with a quick skirmish at Lexington Common, and expanded into a day-long series of fights along a stretch of country road, involving over 3,500 provincial militia men, and over 2,100 of His Majesty's Regulars (redcoats). This was the beginning of the American Revolutionary War. On April 20, 2020 the skirmish on Lexington Common will again be recreated.

It's been over two and a quarter centuries since local militias routed the British at the Battle of Lexington and Concord, but 77 Lexington Minute Men and more than 150 British living historians recreating the 'red coats' will again fight in the early morning of April 20th.

THERE IS MORE: The reenactment of the "Battle of Lexington" is just one event in which the Lexington Minute Men will participate on Patriots' Day – April 20, 2020. The Battle at Lexington starts at 5:45 am. The Minute Men also participate in the Lexington Sunrise Youth Parade at 7:30 am, other ceremonies near the Green at 8:15 am and 10:15 am and the Lexington Patriots' Day Parade at 2:00 p.m. The Battle of Lexington reenactment is organized by the Lexington Minute Men. The Lexington Minute Men is a civic reenactment organization dedicated to honoring the brave Patriots who have made the ultimate sacrifice in defense of our Nation's freedom. The Lexington Minute Men have a long proud history, from the militia that fought on the Common in 1775, to providing men to fight throughout the American Revolutionary War. The Lexington Minute Men gained attention again during the Centennial Celebration of 1875, when President Ulysses S. Grant saluted the 77 men who fought that day on the Common. During the Bicentennial, the Minute Men served as honor guards for President Gerald Ford and Queen Elizabeth. The Lexington Minute Men are under the command of Captain Larry Conley, who will portray Captain Parker in this year's reenactment.
